I have been going ahead on all cylinders since my return to California and my campaign is gaining momentum. All of us in the Democratic Party are optimistic.

Harold, the Roosevelt family has been singularly honored by the recent announcement that the new facility of the American Medical Center at Denver will be called the Eleanor Roosevelt Institute for Cancer Research. I know this will please you as much as it does me.

On December 4th, there will be an inaugural Dinner announcing the Institute, and I could not help feeling that the Teamsters Joint Council would want to be represented in some capacity. Tables for the dinner are priced at $625.

I should like to hear from you as to whether you would want a table for the Dinner, and if so, the people in whose names we should make the reservations.

Dear Mr. Gibbons:

Jim Roosevelt has just relayed to me the fact that he lunched with you today and that you have indicated a real interest in promoting a series of dinners across the country in October 1959, celebrating Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt's 75th birthday. It is my further understanding that the proceeds from such dinners would accrue to local charities and to the American Medical Center.

I understand, of course, that a number of problems exist with regard to the successful promotion of this kind of event, and I am prepared to offer you my personal help and that of my staff in whatever way seems best suitable.

I have not planned to come east before the end of August, but in the light of these developments, I can assure you that I would be available to visit with you in Washington any time, at your own convenience, excluding only the period July 28 through August 5. I will be prepared with some materials in which I think you will be interested and, if you feel that it would be helpful, I would be accompanied by Mr. Eli Jaffe, our National Director of Public Relations.

May I hear from you at your earliest possible convenience?

Washington 1, D. C.

Dear Sir and Brother:

I am again serving as Chairman of the Labor Committee of the American Medical Center. We are working hard in an all-out effort to support this great Hospital which is universally known for its unique "open door" policy. Patients are accepted with advanced cases of tuberculosis and cancer in all its forms. Free, non-sectarian care is provided for an unlimited period of time. This fine old institution has never charged a single penny for its outstanding work of saving and enriching lives.

The Hospital is located in Denver, Colorado. Patients from all parts of the United States are taken care of including a great majority of Union members. These people have been restored to health through fine medical and rehabilitation services provided freely and without red tape or delay in admission.

The great problem is that there are enough buildings, beds and facilities to take care of a great many more patients - but the problem of raising money enough to take care of these patients is our greatest task. It is estimated that it takes about $5,000.00 a year to take care of one patient.

I am anxious to make this year's campaign a success. As always the need for funds remains urgent. Our Annual Dinner in behalf of the Hospital will be held Saturday, June 21, 1958, in the Grand Ballroom of the Hotel Sherman. Contributions may be applied toward the purchase of tables or plates for the dinner, ADS for the Souvenir Program Book, or as a straight donation. (Please note enclosed forms).

Please make your check payable to the American Medical Center and mail in the self-addressed envelope enclosed. Your good will and active support will be deeply appreciated.

James R. Hoffa, Gen. Pres.

JCRS-AMERICAN MEDICAL CENTER AT DENVER

Bill B' DIDN'T KNOW WHERE TO TURN.

"Malignancy," the doctor had finally said. There had been tests. There had been x-ray therapy and surgery. There had been hope. But in time money had been exhausted. Blue Cross had run out. Resources of family had been drained. Then the doctor had said "malignancy."

It seemed like the end of the world to Bill. He had seen the placards. Cancer kills 250,000 Americans each year. Cancer causes one death every two minutes. Now he understood the doctor's hushed tones and his family's strained faces. He felt his case was "hopeless."

Bill didn't know where to turn.

Someone told Bill about an unusual hospital in the foothills of the Rockies.

JCRS-American Medical Center at Denver was its name. Its door was always open. Regardless of a man's faith or the length of free hospitalization he might need he was welcome.

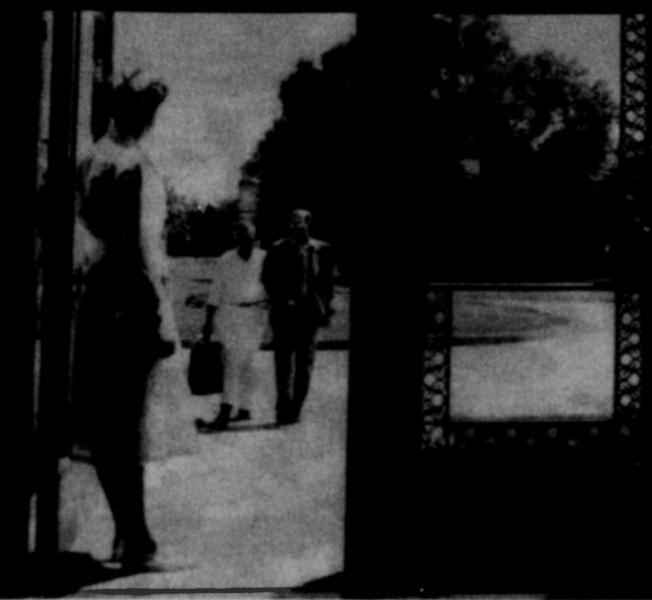

The hospital only asked: "Do you have cancer or tuberculosis or allied diseases? Are you without funds to pay for private treatment?...Then you are welcome here!"

Bill inquired further. He found out that in 1904 a group of workmen "chopped in" $1.10 to set up a little town of "six teams" for victims of tuberculosis literally dying in the streets of Denver.

He discovered that many victims of tuberculosis originally considered "hopeless" were snatched from the very shadow of death by outstanding medical treatment and warm-hearted care.

He learned that in 1954, The Jewish Consumptives Relief Society—as it was first called—widened its work of saving lives to include victims of cancer in all stages as well as those with TB and crippling chest diseases. After much debate with himself and painful discussions with his family, Bill came to the JCRS-American Medical Center—to die.

AGAINST THE BACKDROP of the Rockies, in Denver's famed mile-high climate, the Texas Building stands as a memorial of man's humanity to man, offering cancer patients a new chance on life. The Hospital was originally a town of six teams, but has grown to 34 buildings on 148 acres.

TUBERCULOSIS AND CANCER spell hopelessness and despair for hundreds of thousands of Americans. Increasingly they are turning to the JCRS-American Medical Center whose doors are always open to them, regardless of religious preference, advanced stage of disease or prolonged need for hospitalization.

The Hospital's doors were indeed open.

Inside he met a medical team wrestling with the Angel of Death far beyond the call of duty. At staff meetings and conferences, the entire team repeatedly discussed his medical problems and recommended individualized therapy. The radiologist and surgeon probed deep. The director of laboratories explored every test to provide the doctors with new insights into old diseases. Efficient, warm-hearted nurses stayed close to him, nursing when he hurt and joking with him on his good days. The finest skills and equipment developed by medical science were mobilized to help him fight for health.

Slowly Bill discovered the most priceless and potent "wonder drug" created by humanity—love.

At the JCRS-American Medical Center, he discovered that a vast dosage of love was constantly being infused. The Hospital made up the town of Spivak, a 148-acre town that love itself had built. Here, people who didn't even know him or the other patients, had truly become their brother's keeper.

In time, he discovered he was part of a vast family of human beings bound together by a common enemy—disease. And that an important part of this family was the tireless medical team, working—and sometimes praying—to give him not painless death, but new life.

Bill started to feel like a new man in this climate of medicine and love.

He knew most hospitals were unwilling to tie up their beds with patients needing prolonged treatment and care. Here he saw patients stay for unlimited periods of time, receiving outstanding treatment and care without being charged a single penny.

Here they lived in dignity—not as an unwanted charity patient or a strain on their family—in a climate filled with the spiritual beauty of ancestral faith and common brotherhood.

Above all, he felt that he and the other patients were being treated as total human beings, to be provided the finest care and restored to their families and communities with new health and hope.

Bill left the JCRS-American Medical Center last week.

In all honesty, the doctors were not sure they had permanently conquered his growth.

They are sure, however, that they have added new days to Bill's life and new life for those days.

THE HAPPY DAY comes for many, when, after long illness, they can return home to their loved ones. Since its opening in 1904, the Medical Center has provided more than 3,000,000 days of free care to victims of TB and cancer.

THE OPEN DOOR...

Thanks to the voluntary contributions of thousands of supporters throughout the nation, the JCRS-American Medical Center has given more than 10,000 victims of cancer, TB and chest diseases a chance for new life since it opened its doors in 1904.

In the third year since it established its cancer service, thirty victims of this dread disease—some of them originally considered "hopeless" and "incurable"—have been restored to their homes and loved ones.

You—the friends of the Hospital—made this possible through your generous giving.

...AND THE WAITING BEDS

But your help is needed even more now.

For there are 100 more beds at the Hospital that can be used, if only sufficient funds were raised.

There is a waiting list for these beds—a long and anguished one.

To eliminate this waiting list, to provide the 100 more beds vitally needed by cancer and TB victims who have no other place to turn, a 3-year national development campaign has just been launched under the chairmanship of Com. James Roosevelt (Calif.).

Since it costs $5,000 to care for one patient such as Bill for a year, the goal is to raise $500,000 more annually to make the Hospital's unique "open door" policy an even wider reality and Godsend for 100 more suffering fellow human.
